Orange Wine / Skin Contact Whites

What is orange wine? Made only from white grapes; after the grapes are pressed the juice is left in contact with the skin to macerate. It is the tannin in the skin that imparts the 'orange' or golden colour, thus giving the wine its name. Essentially these retain all the freshness of a white wine, but with the structure of a red. Seriously amazing with food.

 SAVAGNIN

Vin Jaune or "Yellow wine". Aged in not completely airtight barrels where nearly 40% - of the wine evaporates over the years. No topping up is done. A thick layer of flor yeast develops on the surface of the wine and helps prevent excessive oxidation. This aging method, similar to that used for fino sherry allows the wine to acquire its distinct flavours, characteristic of walnut, almond, spice and apple. Drink as an aperitif or even better with hard cheese.
